Artificial Human Eyes,

Adjusted without pain, by Dr. Spencer, Dentist, 254 Penn street.

A Letter to the Afflicted.

PITTSBURGH, March 13, 1867.

To the Editors of the Pittsburgh Gazette:

I deem it a duty I owe to Dr. Robert Hunter, and the community of Pittsburgh—my native city—to state a few facts regarding the results of his treatment in my case, at a time when my life was considered by my physicians and friends in imminent danger. I had been afflicted with Bronchitis and Asthma for nine or ten years, and was continually growing worse. My breathing was so difficult that at times I had thought I had reached my last breath. For three years I was obliged to sleep much of my time in a chair, sitting upright. My cough was distressing from its severity. Expectoration profuse, pain intense. In weight I was reduced from one hundred and seventy to one hundred and thirty pounds. In a word, I was as much reduced and as far gone as I could go, and live. Under these circumstances, every ordinary mode of treatment having failed, I consulted Dr. Hunter in 1861, he being then on a visit to Louisville. I had to be sent in a conveyance, and was unable to walk alone up one flight of stairs to his office. In four days after the commencement of his treatment by inhalation of medicines he prescribed for me, I was able to walk three miles! I continued under his treatment, in all, about three months, when I realized the gratifying fact that I was completely cured of a disease which had baffled every other effort. I have continued ever since to enjoy good health. My lungs have been sound and I have gained in weight until I weigh now one hundred and sixty pounds.

I attribute my recovery and the saving of my life to no earthly means but the remarkable treatment of my case by the direct and common sense method pursued by Dr. R. Hunter. He is now on a visit to Pittsburgh. I am glad to be here to give such of my fellow-townsmen as may need the Doctor's services this bit of experience on my part, hoping it may prove useful to them.

Your obedient servant, JOHN WIBLE.

The Spring of the Year.

Of all the remedies which have ever been discovered, to prepare the human system for the change which it undergoes when lapsing from winter to spring, and from spring to summer, none have ever equalled that thorough and complete VITALIZING TONIC AND ALTERATIVE, known as DR KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER. Whilst it renews the vital organs, it at the same time imparts a healthful influence to those functions whose office it is to throw off the effete and worn out debris that clog and obstruct the animal organism. DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER is of all medicines the the most proper one to be taken at this season of the year, and any one whose liver or stomach, skin or kidneys, are deficient in action, it will impart to one and all of them a healthy and vigorous tonicity, and a guard against sickness for the remainder of the year. DR. KEYSER'S BLOOD SEARCHER, takenjto the extent of half a dozen bottles, will purify the system and render it invulnerable against the malarial influences incident to the usual changes of the season of the year.

It not only does this, but by the wonderful power which it imparts to the stomach and liver, and thereby rendering the blood pure, it rebuilds the crumbling frame, and gives health and vivacity where torpor and sluggishness formerly prevailed. Look at the vast number of cures it has performed in the midst of our own people. See the ghastly scrofulas, the loathsome tetters, the thousands of other blood taints which had manifested themselves upon the surface, and you will give credit to one of the most extraordinary medicines of modern times. Dr. Keyser has in his possession hundreds of cures made by his Blood Searcher, after the most painful and dangerous cutting operations had failed to cure, and he deems it his duty to make known these cures to the public, in order that those who may be afflicted in like manner may also be benefited. Ask for Dr. Keyser's Blood Searcher and take no other, at 140 Wood street, Consultation rooms, 120 Penn street.

Valuable Improvement in Piano Fortes.

The near approach to perfection which our leading piano manufacturers have reached in their best instruments seems sometimes almost to preclude the possibility of any further really great improvement being made in any direction. Messrs. William Knabe & Company, have, nevertheless, recently patented an improvement which, we think, they justly claim to be of great importance and value. It is briefly described as follows: It consists of a metal agraffe bridge, which is fastened underneath the iron plate and to the front of the tuning block, thus resting between the two. The screws which fasten the iron plate to the tuning block pass through the metal agraffe bridge, thus fastening the whole immovably together. The strings passing through the agraffes, which are fastened to the metal plate, thus giving a powerful down bearing to the strings which serves to bind the iron and metal plates, and the tuning block still more firmly.

The result of this new bridge, as applied to Messrs. Knabe & Company's square grand pianos, is certainly noticeable. Their tone seems to have a volume and solidity, added to its original purity and excellence, which gives them the power of a grand piano in smaller compass and fairly entitles them to their name.

Charlotte Blume, 43 Fifth street, is sole agent for Knabe's celebrated Pianos.

CHATTANOOGA PEOPLE STARVING.

Mayor Foraging for Food.

DEAD BODIES IN THE RIVER.

CINCINNATI, O., March 14.—The Gazette's Nashville special says: The suffering at Chattanooga and other places on the Tennessee River is appalling. At Chattanooga on the 12th the water was from twelve to twenty feet deep in the city, many of the houses toppling over and others floating away. The Mayor, with a posse of citizens and soldiers, was foraging among the loaded cars for food. The agents of the road protested, but the Mayor said the people were starving. Twenty-five dead bodies were seen floating down the river at Bridgeport, Ala., on the 12th. The loss of property is estimated at a million of dollars. General Carlin, at Nashville, was making efforts to send rations through to Chattanooga.

FROM MEXICO.

Later News from the Interior—The Tiger of La Cubuya in Command of the Imperialists—The Contending Forces in the Field, and Decisive Battle Fought Ere This.

BROWNSVILLE, March 7, via NEW ORLEANS, March 14.—Three days later military news from the interior, and general news to the 28th ult., have been received. Marquese takes command of the Imperial forces in the City of Mexico. He is called the "Tiger of La Cubuya." He says in a proclamation: "I have given proof enough how I shall conduct myself, and defend what is intrusted to me." On the 25th, Maximilian marched to meet Escobedo and give him battle. Maximilian's forces are estimated at 14,700, and the Liberals at 32,000. The entire armies in the field number, Republican, 45,000; Imperialists, 35,000. NEW YORK, March 14.—Intelligence from Central and South America is important.

President Prado, of Peru, has abandoned his Dictatorship, and Congress has been regularly installed.

A bill was presented to Congress in which it was declared Peru would listen to no offer of mediation, until Spain declared the acts of her agents in the Pacific were in violation of the international law.

Our Panama correspondence reports that the revolutionists had defeated the Government forces in two engagements. Revolutionary action has manifested itself in the North, and revolts had occurred among the troops.

FORTIETH CONGRESS.

(FIRST SESSION.)

WASHINGTON, March 14, 1867.

SENATE.

CABLE ON AMERICAN COAST.

Mr. RAMSEY, from the Committee on Postoffice and Post roads, reported back favorably, the bill authorizing the Atlantic Telegraph Company, of New York, to make soundings and lay a cable on the American coast, to connect with the French coast; also, a bill to declare certain bridges across the Missouri river, public highways.

CONCERNING PENSIONS.

Mr. VAN WINKLE introduced a resolution instructing the Committee on Pensions to inquire into the expediency of putting the pensions granted by special acts of Congress on the same footing as those granted under the general laws. Adopted.

EUROPEAN AND FOREIGN MAILS.

Mr. POMEROY introduced a bill authorizing the Post Master General to contract with the Commercial Navigation Company for the weekly transportation of European and foreign mails, between New York and Bremen, touching at Southampton, and authorizing to guarantee on behalf of United States bonds to said Company to an amount not exceeding $3,500,000, the Company to fit out within one year seven first-class ships for the service named, the bonds to be issued upon completion of the same, but not to a greater amount than fifty per cent. of the value of each, respectively, the compensation of the Company's service rendered not to exceed in amount the whole sum received for postage on letters, newspapers, &c., transported.

Referred to Committee on Post Offices.

WHISKY AT THE CAPITOL.

Mr. FESSENDEN reported from the Committee on Public Buildings and Grounds adversely on the joint resolution of Mr. Wilson, prohibiting the use of whisky in the Capitol, but presented an amendment to the joint rule, providing that no liquors be offered for sale or kept within the Capitol, or any room connected therewith, or public grounds adjacent, and the Sergeants at arms of the two Houses shall enforce the provisions, and an officer or employee who shall violate the rule shall be dismissed from office.

SOUTHERN PACIFIC RAILROAD.

Mr. RAMSEY introduced a bill authorizing the Southern Pacific Railroad Company to extent their road westward through the Territories of New Mexico and Arizona to the east boundary line of California, and with the consent of that State through the same to the Pacific ocean, said company to be entitled to all the privileges of government lands, loans of bonds, &c., as granted to the Union Pacific Railroad Company. Referred to the Committee on the Pacific Road.

SUPPLEMENTARY RECONSTRUCTION.

Mr. TRUMBULL called up the supplementary reconstruction bill, which was read at length.

Mr. DRAKE said he had several amendments to offer. The first was to insert in the fifth section a provision, that at the election provided for in the preceding sections registered voters of each State shall vote on the question of holding State conventions and forming constitutions, those in favor of the convention shall have written or printed on their ballots "for a convention," and those opposed shall have "against a convention" written or printed on their ballots. The persons appointed to superintend the election shall make returns of votes for and against. The Commanding General, to whom the same shall be returned, shall ascertain the total vote, and if a majority of the whole number of those in any State shall have voted for such convention, it shall be held; if a majority shall have voted against a convention, no such convention shall be held.

Mr. DRAKE said he did not like the provision of the bill as reported on the subject. He did not think the individuals elected as members of the convention should have it in their power to make an official expression of what they chose to declare to be the wishes of the people, but that the people themselves should, by their votes, directly declare their wishes on that subject.

Mr. TRUMBULL said the Judiciary Committee had considered a proposition similar to that now introduced by Mr. Drake, but had considered it was best as now. Frauds were effectually guarded against by the provisions that the Constitution must be ratified by a majority of the registered voters. He hoped the bill would be passed as it came from the Judiciary Committee. If many amendments were adopted it would be incongruous.

Mr. DRAKE replied, arguing the necessity for guarding the Southern people against the possibility of betrayal into the adoption of a constitution against their wishes. The very men who had misled this people during the last six years were now ready to mislead them again.

Mr. HOWARD supported the amendment as necessary to get a full expression of the popular vote.

Mr. FESSENDEN opposed the amendment.

Mr. MORTON was opposed to submitting the question of convention or no convention to the rebels at all in the beginning. If two-thirds of the loyal voters of the South were not in favor of a convention, let them stay at home, but let them not be able to defeat the work of reconstruction. Let the convention be held and a constitution formed. It is quite enough for them to have a voice in ratifying the constitution after it is framed.

Mr. HOWARD contended for the right of Congress, at such time and in such a manner as it saw fit, to restore the Rebel States. He was not in such a hurry to complete this work as to admit a State without a clear and fair expression of the will of the majority of its citizens. A minority Government could not exist in this country, and if any State contained a minority opposed to returning to the Union, he was for keeping out till doomsday, or until its people repented in the dirt and ashes of their crimes.

After further debate, the amendment was rejected—17 against 27.

Yeas—Messrs. Cameron, Chandler, Drake, Ferry, Fessenden, Fowler, Harlan, Howard, Howe, Morgan, Merrill, of Maine, Morrill, of Vermont, Patterson, of New Hampshire, Sumner, Thayer, Tipton, Wade.

Nays—Messrs. Anthony, Buckalew, Cole, Conkling, Conness, Corbett, Cragin, Davis, Dixon, Doolittle, Frelinghuysen, Grimes, Henderson, Hendricks, Johnson, Morton, Patterson, of Tenn., Ramsey, Ross, Sherman, Sprague, Stewart, Trumbull, Van Winkle, Williams and Yates.

Mr. DRAKE moved to amend the fourth section, by adding the following: "Provided no such Constitution shall be considered as entitling the State for which it is formed to such representation unless it provides that at all elections for State, County or Municipal officers, the electors shall vote by closed ballot, and such mode of voting shall never be changed without the assent of Congress."

A debate of some length followed, during which Mr. Drake expressed the belief that Congress have the right to thrust out Senators and Representatives where the State formed a Constitution with this provision in it, and afterwards violated it.

Mr. MORTON said he would vote for Mr. Drake's amendment, if the clause referring to the future were omitted, and provided simply that voting by closed ballots shall be provided for in the Constitution. He believed it very important that the voting should be by closed ballot, but doubted the right of Congress to impose a condition of this kind which should be binding in the future.

Mr. HENDERSON spoke against the amendment.

After further debate, and without action, the Senate went into executive session and afterwards adjourned.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

TREASURY DEPARTMENT MATTERS.

Mr. COVODE asked leave to offer a resolution reciting that charges of irregularities in the Treasury Department had been made through the press and in the House and that such statements were calculated to cause great uneasiness in the country, and providing for the appointment of a Select Committee to investigate all such charges and report to the House the present outstanding Government indebtedness, as represented by currency bonds, compound interest notes, and other promises to pay, deficiencies exhibited by the books and accounts; the amounts of over issues, if any, whether of compound interest notes, and other promises to pay, the deficiencies exhibited by the books and accounts; the amounts of over issues, if any, whether coupons or duplicated bonds, have been presented; if so, what amount of such have been redeemed, and to inquire into other irregularities.

Mr. CHANDLER objected, as the clause was too indefinite, and opened up too wide a field for inquiry.

Mr. COVODE gave notice that he would, on Monday, move to suspend the rules, so as to offer the resolution.

TIME FOR ELECTING REPRESENTATIVES.

Mr. JULIAN introduced a bill to fix the time of the election of representatives and delegates in Congress; also, a bill to constitute eight hours as a day's work for all mechanics and laborers employed by or on behalf of the Government. Referred to the Judiciary Committee.

Mr. HOLMAN desired to have the latter bill put on its final passage now, but Mr. STEVENS objected.

IN BEHALF OF SAILORS.

Mr. FERNANDO WOOD presented a petition from Mayor Hoffman, and citizens of New York, asking the extension of the same privilege to sailors honorably discharged, as now extended by law to soldiers.

CONGRESSIONAL PRINTER.

The SPEAKER presented the reply of the Congressional printer to inquiry contained in the resolution of March 11th, respecting the purchase of printing paper.

THE COLORADO DELEGATE.

Mr. SCOFIELD offered a resolution instructing the Committee on Elections to report whether Mr. Hunt or Mr. Chilcott, claiming their seats as delegate from Colorado, is prima facie entitled to the seat.

Mr. RANDALL moved that when the House adjourn to-day it adjourn to meet on Monday. Negatived.

THE SLAVE TRADE IN CUBA.

NOMINATIONS CONFIRMED AND REJECTED.

WASHINGTON, March 14, 1867.

LATE MEXICAN NEWS.

The following is the translation of a letter received to-day by Minister Romero:

"LA PROVIDENCIA, February 10.—Acapulco is still in the hands of the French, but will be abandoned. According to a communication that the French Consul addressed, in the name of the Admiral, to the officer commanding our forces at Camp La Bana, asking for an interview, I instructed that officer to decline this, as I see no object in it, since the post will soon be abandoned. My son, General Diego Alvarez, left this place on the 12th ult., for Iguala. This city having been abandoned, my son went with four thousand men from this State to Cuernavara. With this force, which is well equipped, having artillery and cavalry in due proportion, he will contribute, with other forces now in the valley of Mexico, to give the final blow to the tottering Empire.

(Signed) JUAN ALVAREZ."

SLAVE TRADE IN CUBA.

The United States Consul General at Havana informs the State Department that the Spanish authorities are vigilant and active all over the Island to discover and thwart any slave expedition, and there has been and still is a chain of night sentinels throughout the coast of Cuba guarding all points where a landing could be made, and the impression is general that on the account of such vigilance no slave expedition could have been fitted out. The Consul says he has become entirely satisfied that the Rosa Del Tura, whose arrival in Havana was announced to the Department, came in ballast from Fernando Po, without Africans or any cargo.

DESTITUTION IN THE SOUTH.

Appeal to Northern People.

ATTEMPT TO MURDER RICHARDSON, TRIBUNE CORRESPONDENT.

Jealousy Was the Cause.

NEW YORK, March 14.—At a special meeting of the Executive Committee of the Southern Famine Relief Committee, this morning, the following was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, The Southern Famine Relief Committee is advised by General Howard not to relax its efforts in obtaining contributions from the people in the Northern States, on account of the appropriation by Congress, the destitution being so widespread as to demand all that can be done for its relief; therefore,

Resolved, That the Committee earnestly request the clergymen of all denominations throughout the Northern States to join in a simultaneous appeal for contributions on Sunday next, the 17th inst.

(Signed,) ARCHIBALD RUSSELL, Chairman.

JOHN BOWEN, Secretary pro tem.

The Express states that a determined attempt was made last night by a lawyer named Daniel McFarland to murder Albert D. Richardson, the well-known Tribune correspondent. Said McFarland was jealous of Richardson's attention to his wife, who is an actress belonging to Winter Garden. Richardson has for five or six weeks occupied a room in McFarland's house, in Amity street. Between eleven and twelve o'clock last night, as Richardson and the lady were walking down Amity street, the irate husband came up behind them and fired three shots at Richardson from a revolver, one of which hit him, lodging in the groin. A police officer seized McFarland and took him to the station house. Richardson was taken to his room, where the ball was extracted. He was subsequently removed to his residence. Samuel Sinclair, counsel of Richardson, this morning stated to the Court that his client declined to make any charge against the prisoner, and he was discharged.

Mr Richardson's friends, deeming the account of the murderous assault upon him last night calculated to do injustice, both to himself and Mrs. McFarland, desire the following additional statment published:

McFarland, it is alleged, is subject to fits of drunken frenzy, and has for a long time threatened his wife with personal violence, so that she was compelled to leave him and seek legal protection from his persecutions. She had instituted proceedings for separation on the ground of cruelty and refusal to provide for his family. McFarland, it is represented, had consented to the separation, and she had gone to live with her friends, earning her own support upon the stage, and by her labors with the pen. Richardson had been requested to escort her from the theatre last night, when he was attacked by the infuriated husband in the street. After the second shot he turned upon his assailant, clinched and threw him, the two being on the ground when the officer reached the scene. Richardson's wound, although painful, is not considered dangerous. At an examination this morning, Richardson being unable to appear, the prisoner was dismissed, but proceedings have been instituted for his re-arrest and trial, when a rigid investigation will show that he was acting simply as a friendly protector against the unreasonable frenzy of a husband.

Grain and Corn for the South.

FORTRESS MONROE, March 12.—Very large shipments of grain and corn have lately been made from Norfolk to Savannah, Charleston and other Southern ports, and Norfolk merchants are still loading vessels for the South.

Ship Ashore and Lost.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14.—The passengers and crew, numbering thirty-seven, of the wrecked barque Golden Sunset, arrived to-day from Honolulu. The vessel went ashore on Derby's Island, one of the Phoenix group, December 11th. Seamen were drowned in launching the gig, and the remainder of the crew and passengers landed safely. The disaster is attributed to the incorrectness of the charts of this group of islands. The vessel and cargo were a total loss. The British Commissioners at Honolulu investigated the circumstances and acquitted the Captain and officers of all blame.

A Railroad Difficulty.

MONTPELIER, VT., March 14.—Gov. Dillingham has issued a proclamation convening the Legislature in extra session on the 21st inst. The object is to afford relief to the southwestern portion of the State, where the people are cut off from a railroad outlet south and west by the action of the Troy and Boston and Rensselaer and Saratoga railroad companies. Both operate their roads in this State, which are under the control of the Legislature. The remedy proposed is the chartering of a company to build a road connecting with the Harlem railroad.

THE BUTLER COUNTY HOMICIDE.

Trial of John B. Adlington for the Murder of Sidney B. Cunningham and James H. Teeples, at Portersville.

WEDNESDAY, March, 13, 1867.

The prisoner was brought into Court by the Sheriff. The jury were then called and answered to their names.

By the consent of both parties, the trial of Adlington on the indictment for the murder of J. H. Teeple, was continued till next term, and the balance of the traverse jury were discharged. This was done because there was no probability that the present trial would terminate this week, and there was no venire for a jury for next week. Neither the Court nor the Attorneys wished to impannel a jury, and keep them waiting in the charge of the constable.

John M. Jones, continued—We carried Cunningham into the room; I spoke to him; he did not answer; I went to Teeple and asked him if he wouldn't get up; he said no; he complained that his head was very cold; the door of the hall opened on it; I got an overcoat and put it over him; I gave him a drink of water; I turned to the door; saw Cunningham lying with his bowels out, as large as my fist; I said, "Oh, Doctor, is it possible?" he said he would have to try and put them back; Cunningham took a drink of water; said he wanted water, and I gave him a drink; I put a pillow under his head; he then threw out his arms and placed them on his breast; Teeple still complained of being cold; I got a mattrass and put him on it; I went into the bar room; there were two or three there; Adlington was standing before the fire, meditating; I told him, "John, the doctor says one of them men will die;" he said, "I don't give a d—n how soon;" that was his answer; "why," says I, "John, John, how can you say so?" He said, "why let them die; they got what they came for." Did not see Adlington at that examination; I walked out of the bar-room to the pavement; saw J. R. Pringle; Mr. Cunningham was dead when I again went to the room. Then the doctor said there would have to be an examination; I went for Esquire Humphrey; when I came back they were taking off Teeple's clothing; I helped; laid him on the sofa; I went home about three o'clock; when I was washing Oliver's head, I was going to say to Adlington, "you didn't get hurt;" he said, "stop! don't say what you know; I am sworn to secrecy—to tell nothing; I belong to the Odd Fellows." This was while Oliver was in the kitchen, before he was taken up stairs; Adlington had no mark of hurt; I did not see him struck or hurt; I did not hear any one insult him during the evening; saw no knife in his hand or any other person's; saw Sidney Oliver with a tumbler; I saw a knife in the defendants hand on the 7th of September.

Objected to by Mr. M'Carthy. Commonwealth ordered to put the question in writing.

The Commonwealth proposed to prove that the witness saw the knife with the defendant prior to the affray, to be followed up by a description of it, and show that it corresponded with the one the wounds were inflicted with.

Defendant objects that it was no part of this transaction, and should not be received.

Court overruled the objection and noted an exception.

Witness examined.—We were laying a fence for Pringle; Adlington was excited; I dont know for what; he was gone half an hour, and returned with a knife; it was a two edged butcher knife about six inches long in the blade, and about three inch handle; looked as though it had been used for some time; he had it his breast when he came to me; took it out and showed it to me, then put it in his boot; we were building a fence between Mr. Akin's and Mr. Pringle's town lots; this was in the afternoon; Adlington then went on with his work.

By the Court.—Adlington made no threats at that time against the deceased; he carried it, he said, to defend his rights and his family rights.

The defendant objects to the last declaration of the witness; because he has said that Adlington made no threats at the time against either of the deceased persons, therefore the declaration would not be evidence; they are no part of the res gestae.

The Court over-ruled the objection, and noted an exception.

Witness resumed, in chief.—Adlington did not show me how he would use the knife. I saw some one, I think it was Calvin Weller strike Teeple, in the room during the fight. Struck him back of the ear; did not see any one strike Cunningham.

Cross-Examined.—I saw Cunningham standing by the stairs in the north room, calling a cotillion, when I came back from home; they are winding stairs in the corner of the room; I saw him from the hall; the doors were open; when I came Teeple was in the bar-room; went into the parlor together, and Teeple sat down before the fire; it was about ten o'clock. The first I saw of Cunningham after he called figures, was striking Fred. Bowder; the room was crammed—crowded up—immediately after the fight, I got back as far as the hearth before the crowd; during all this time the fight was going on; there was a rush, a noise—such as always attends such a fight—it was a bustle, striking, knocking over of chairs, &c. There was a lamp on the table when it commenced; it grew darker, but I did not see the lamp carried out; there was a lantern on the mantle; Oliver was knocked down; don't know how long it was afterwards; when I went to quiet my daughter, Cunningham knocked Oliver down; there was a great crowd between me and Oliver; two deep between me and Oliver; the room to the north end and toward the hall was crowded; I saw John Oliver immediately after he got up; he struck Teeple, I thought at the time, it was Cunningham he struck, but afterwards ascertained that it was Teeple; in this position I heard some one cry "Oh!" this was before Oliver came out; the time appeared long while the fight lasted; I remained at the house till three o'clock; I was not in the cellar at any time after eight o'clock; there were other persons in the bar-room when Adlington made his remarks about the death of Cunningham.

Wm. M. Kirker sworn,—I was at the house of John Oliver on the 24th of December last, I was fiddling in the north room; heard a noise in the sitting room, and the crowd rushed that way; pushed my way, and got through the crowd at the door. Uriah McClarran, Fred. Bowder, and several others were standing rather inside the door; I saw a man lying on the floor with his head toward me; lying on his left side rather to the left of the door, caught hold of him and lifted him up; as I lifted him he hit me in the right eye; I staggered back against the northwest corner of the sitting room; Fred Bowder struck me; I was blind and could not see anything after that; I knew it was Bowder when I raised him up; saw John Jones by the fire place in the room, and several others persons at the farther side of the hall door; did not recognize them on account of my wound; I was acquainted with both Teeple and Cunningham; the fight was going on at that time; Weller and McClarran were both standing near Fred Bowder; I went to the kitchen; heard some one hollowing "Oh!" or something like it, or "Oh my;" it seemed to be in the room where the fight was; from the sound it would indicate that some one was hurt; as I turned to go back a man ran past me in a great hurry; he came out of the dancing room; he jostled me aside, saying "stand out of the way;" he went to the fore part of the kitchen; and as he ran around to the table he said, "I must hurry and get this knife away;" didn't see what further he did; I did not understand that he andressed this language to me; it was John Adlington the defendant; I think there were some women there; Lizzie Jones was there; I had started for the dancing room and was near the centre of the kitchen; at one side; I did not observe anything in his hand; I thought he held his right hand close to his side; he passed me on the left side; his right hand and side would be from me; he was going rapidly. I did not speak to him; he was going towards the west end of the kitchen; he was in the kitchen when he used those words; he was some eight or ten feet from me when he spoke them; I was some two or three feet from the table; I was within a step or two of the door of the north room; the remark attracted my attention. I had not heard of any one being stabbed at the time, but the expression struck me with horror. I was afraid something was not right.

The latter part of the reply which relates to the impression of the witness was ruled out.

Witness resumed.—Mr. Adlington seemed to be in a hurry; the tone of his voice appeared hurried; he seemed to be bothered; I then went into the dancing room; I saw John Oliver coming out; did not know which way he went.

Court adjourned till 2 P. M.

Fatal Accident.

On Tuesday afternoon an accident occurred in Richland township which resulted in the death of Mr. John Dixon, an old and respected citizen of that community. At the time mentioned Mr. Dixon was employed about a threshing machine which was working on the premises. He was caught by the "tumbling shaft" near the horse power, and drawn repeatedly around by its revolutions. Every time he was over the shaft his head struck the cog box of the horse power, and when, at length, he was rescued, it was found that his scalp was torn loose from the head, from the ear around to the back portion of the skull. The right ankle was broken, and the bones of the right instep crushed. In addition to these injuries, others of an internal character and several severe bruises were found to have been sustained. The unfortunate man lingered in agony until Wednesday afternoon, when death ensued. The deceased was eighty-five years of age, and leaves a family.

The Thirteenth Juror.

In our attendance, as reporter, at the Criminal Court, during the past ten years, we have, as doubtless others who have attended there regularly for a longer or shorter period, noticed an old gentleman occupying, invariably, a seat near the jury box. His presence during the court session has been so constant, and his occupancy of a seat near the jury, from force of habit, so preistent, that he has become known as "the thirteenth juror." We enjoy the acquaintance of this old gentleman, and he is generally known in this community, as may well be supposed, after residing in the city for fifty-one years. By industry and economy he amassed a comfortable competence and is now in the quiet, unobtrusive enjoyment of the same. For twenty-one years he purchased old iron for the works of Shoenberger & Co. and thus made his money in days when the cupidity of youth was not excited and boys made thieves by unscrupulous proprietors of junk shops, which in later times have become little else than "fence keeps" in police parlance. His name is James Garvin, and although he has attained the ripe age of seventy-two years, is yet comparatively hale and hearty. His wife, by whom he had eighteen children, twelve boys and six girls, died some months since. Four of his children survive, and are useful members of society. During the present session of the Court we missed "the thirteenth juror." His place was vacant. Inquiry was made concerning the unusual circumstance, and the fear expressed that his familiar countenance would be familiar no more—that the hand of time had intervened in the natural order of things. Yesterday, however, it appeared in its accustomed place, and a satisfactory excuse was given for absense. Mr. G. had been serving as a regular juror in the District Court. We were not a little suprised, however, at a passage of warm words between him and tipstave Larimer, the latter disputing Mr. G.'s right to occupying his old place—that he was no better than any other man, and that as others were prohibited from sitting there he also would be. Mr. G., naturally enough, was annoyed at what he deemed uncalled for interference, and rebuked the tipstave for over-officiousness. The matter resulted in the shifting of the reporters' table and Mr. G. being assigned a seat between it and the jury box, where we move, on behalf of the reporters, he shall sit at his pleasure henceforth. It is not with a view to gratify idle curiosity that Mr. Garvin attends the Criminal Court, but in the pursuance of a habit which grew upon him in his old days of seeing justice administered. As he is a marvel of propriety in his demeanor and conduct, an annoyance in no respect, and has uninterruptedly occupied a seat in Court for so long a period, we think, with him, that the action of tipstave Larimer yesterday was uncalled for. It certainly will be so considered by those, and they are many, with whom "the thirteenth juror" has become a fixture.

[From the Wheeling Intelligencer.]

Things are dull and depressed up at Pittsburgh in an iron way. Eastern manufacturers have invaded even that market with nails and other staple products, and are underselling the home houses at their own doors. This is owing to the difference in the price of labor east and west. Nails are bein shipped from Boston by steamers to Baltimore and thence to Cincinnati for fifty-four cents per keg, and sold for the same or less than Pittsburgh nails, and at a profit, too. In this way the spring trade is being in part supplied, and the season is now getting so far along that the Pittsburgh men are growing more indifferent about effecting an adjustment with the puddlers. The latter are asking nine dollars as against seven offered. The manufacturers, owing to the lateness of the season, are talking of reducing their offer to six. They have a project also on hand which will go into operation this week, that of sending agents to Belgium to bring in a thousand puddlers. We are informed that the agents will start this week. The assessments and contributions on the different establishments have been levied for that purpose.

We regret to hear of this state of things, for Wheeling is in the same boat with Pittsburgh in this and ruoid and depressed condition of the market. We had hoped that some understanding between the iron men and the puddlers would speedily be arrived at, but the prospect seems remote as ever. If things go on as they are going of course the Eastern men will have the spring trade largely in their own hands, and in that event we may look for a wider instead of a narrower margin of difference between the manufacturers and the puddlers. It would seem to be the part of sound policy for both sides to try and arrange their difficulties before the spring demand is otherwise supplied.

The Essay Contest.

The Essay contest between the pupils of the senior class of the Pittsburgh Female College attracted a large audience last evening, which was composed of the intellectual and refined portion of our community. Essays were read by the following scholars: Misses Ada L. Scofield, of New Castle, Helen W. Stark, Penn Yan, N. Y.; Ella M. Gaylord; Bourbon, Ind., Fannie Gulick, Penn Yan, N. Y.; Carrie M. Mathist, Smithfield; Isperia Augustine, Addison; Ana May Tower and Emma J. Boyd, Pittsburgh, and M. Louise Ogden, of Penn Yan, N. Y. All the essays were spirited and well written, and reflected the highest credit upon the gifted authors. The prize was awarded to Miss Ogden, of Penn Yan, whose essay entitled "where shall I write my name," was a perfect gem. Hon. H. W. Williams in delivering the award, said that all the essays were well written, and that the committee regretted there were not more prizes to distribute. The musical part of the entertainment was very excellent.

Arrested and Discharged.

On Wednesday Mr. J. McGilvray, Superintendent of the brick yard connected with the outer depot of the Pittsburgh Fort Wayne and Chicago Railroad, in the Second ward, Allegheny, made information before Mayor Morrison charging six or seven men with disorderly conduct. He alleged that the men in question were in the habit night after night of coming to the brick yard to sleep, and while on the premises acted in a very disorderly manner, and that they frequently had dissolute women in company with them. Captain Bowden, Lieutenant McKain, and officers Sprague, McCesney, Hobson, and Herman proceeded to the place on Wednesday night and arrested the fellows, taking them to the lock up for safe keeping. Yesterday morning the prosecutor failed to make his appearance and the accused were discharged. The only names of the party that we could learn was Isaac Williams and "Red Bird" Dickson. The parties got off easily enough this time, but we are authorized to state that they had better not be found there again.

Committed to Jail.—Ann Grimes, of Robinson street, Allegheny, came before Alderman McMasters yesterday, and preferred charges of false pretences and surety of the peace against James Smiley, of Pine alley, Allegheny. She states that recently he took five dollars of her money, under pretense of taking it out to get it changed. He took it away, but did not bring back the change. More recently he threatened her with violence if she did not stop talking about the money. Hence the suits. Officer Seth Wilmot arrested the accused, and after a hearing the prisoner was committed to jail to answer at Court.

Attempted Suicide.—Mrs. Long, wife of Mr. John Long, corner of Colwell and Reed streets, Sixth ward, attempted suicide on Wednesday afternoon, by cutting her throat with a razor. She fastened herself in a room and cut a severe gash across her throat. Her little girl passed the room and heard her groan. She summoned help, the door was forced open and Mrs. Long discovered, lying on the floor. Medical aid was summoned, and the unfortunate woman will recover. She has been in very ill health for some time, and was probable partially deranged.

Burglary.—During Wednesday night the residence of Gen. J. B. Sweitzer on Fourth street was entered and robbed. The thieves entered by a back window. They left two chisels, a brace and a bit in the kitchen. They ransacked every room in the house, and stole an overcoat, a set of silver spoons and thirty-five dollars in money. Other valuables were left untouched though within reach, among them General Sweitzer's gold watch and chain which lay on the table in his bedroom. There is no suspicion as to who the robbers were.

A Trophy of War.—Annie Mary Shaw, residing on West street, Allegheny, came before Alderman McMasters yesterday, bringing a paper parcel. On unrolling this it was found to contain a large wad of red hair, which she alleged had been pulled out of her head by Mrs. Catharine McLaughlin, during a recent battle between them. She further stated that Catharine had hit her over the head with a potato masher. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the belligerent Catharine.

Elsewhere appears a card of Mr. John Wible, a well known citizen, certifying to a cure effected upon him by Dr. Robert Hunter, now stopping at the Monongahela house. Mr. Wible brought the card to our office and urged us to call the attention of the public to it, as he felt it was his duty to make known, for the benefit of suffering humanity, the remarkable effect of Dr Hunter's treatment. Read the card in our first column.

Obstructing an Officer.—Thomas O'Conner, constable in the Third ward, went on Wednesday to make a levy on some property on the steamboat Franklin, when, as he alleges, he was interfered with by the mate, E. H. Beasley, who ordered him off the boat, and endeavored to prevent the performance of his duty. He made information to this effect before Alderman Morrow. The accused was arrested, and after a hearing, held to bail in $500 for his appearance at Court.

Burglary in the Ninth Ward.—The residence of Felix C. Negley, Esq., in the Ninth ward, was robbed on Tuesday night, the robbers forcing the lock of a back door. The house was thoroughly ransacked, but only a watch worth ten dollars and four dollars in money were stolen. No clue.

Sweitzer Hall Robbed.—On Tuesday night Sweitzer Hall in the Fifth ward, was robbed, the thieves entering through a back window. Michael Mattey, the proprietor, lay asleep in the saloon and was robbed of a gold watch and a sum of money. The money drawer was also robbed.

Obstructing a Passage.—Owen Dalton, a huckster, was before Alderman Morrow yesterday to answer a charge preferred by Market Constable John Mesner, of obstructing a passage way in the Market House. He was fined $1 and the costs of the case.

FRIDAY, MARCH 15, 1867.

THE TRADES UNION.

At a meeting of this body, held in this city, a day or two ago, Mr. Armstrong offered a resolution which was unanimously adopted, declaring, in substance, that the GAZETTE does not "pay a fair day's wages for a fair day's work." If the resolution had stated that the GAZETTE did not belong to the "Union," and had rested there, it would have set forth the simple truth, but, in going farther, it proclaimed a naked falsehood. The GAZETTE has uniformly paid the "Union" rates to all its journeymen, and this fact is well known by members of the craft throughout the city.

Shortly after the GAZETTE passed into the hands of its present proprietors, they were invited to join the "Union." It so happened that two female compositors—widows of soldiers—were employed by us at the time. Understanding, from long experience, something of the spirit and aims of Trade Unions, we caused inquiry to be made as to what we would be required to do concerning these two work women, in case we joined. The information we got was that "they would be allowed to remain for the present." The inference we drew was that we would be permitted to give them work until we became amenable to the "Union," and would then be compelled to dismiss them. We still think this was the only admissible inference. As we have not much faith in strong men who deny weak women the right to earn bread for themselves and their little ones, except over the wash-tub, we did not go in.

The writer hereof is by trade a printer. He served an apprenticeship of seven years, under old fashioned articles of indenture, according to a habit unfortunately disused. When his time was out, he worked as a journeyman. For a good many years he has been an employer. Since he became of lawful age, to this year of grace, he has not felt the need of a guardian, either in the form of an individual or an association, to help him sell his own labor or buy that of others. Had he felt conscious he needed such help he would have made application to Court and had one duly appointed. He never had any difficulty, as a workman, in selling his skill and industry, and, so far, has never exchanged an unpleasant word with a man whom he employed. So long as he and the men he bargained with are at agreement, he holds it to be an unwarrantable impertinence for any body else to interfere.

The first year he worked as a journeyman he was invited to join a Typographical Society, which he did not do. He made money by refusing. The Society was preparing for a strike, and wanted to get control of all the workmen. It did not concern the members thereof whether they bankrupted the master-printers or not. They made their demand and it was refused. A strike followed. The employers thought they might as well lose by doing nothing, or as near it as might be, as by prosecuting business. After a time most of the unmarried journeymen went elsewhere to seek work. The married ones held out until their moneys were exhausted, and then resumed work at the old rates. We worked away, all the while, made fair wages, preserved self-respect, had the good-will of employers, which afterwards proved valuable, and at the end of the year were much better off than the strikers. That recipe is a good one, and we ask nothing for it.

For two months thousands of skilled workmen have been idle in this city and neighborhood. It accords with reason to infer that the proprietors are not suffering the mills to stand idle, deteriorating for want of use, if they could go on without still greater loss, at the old schedule of wages. All these employers are work-people in the same absolute sense as the men they hire, and do not get off with eight hours a day, well put in, unless they are luckier than we are. In a broad and just consideration of the Labor Question their interests ought to be regarded as well as those of other industrial classes. These thousands of strikers have lost what they could have earned in sixty days. One-sixth is a large part of a full year. The aggregate loss rises to a prodigious sum. If they now manage to obtain the wages they demand for the residue of the twelve months, they will not be as well off as they would have been had they gone on at the wages offered. This is a plain way of looking at the case, but it is practical, and often leads to beneficial consequences. Ordinarily, it is the long pull and the steady pull that conducts to pecuniary competency. Strikes keep more money out of workmen's pockets, than they ever put in.

If, in passing along the street, we should observe citizens chaffering with a huckster and differing with him about the price of family commodities, we should not feel we had a mission to reconcile them. We might, indeed, recall the words of that apocryphal writer who says, "as a nail sticketh fast between the stones of a wall, so sticketh fraud between the buyer and seller." But we should not feel it was our place to determine which was getting the better of the other. So, in the hitch between the mill owners and the workmen, we should have held our peace had not the "Union" meddled with our business, and not by telling the truth, but by telling a falsehood. The GAZETTE pays without grumbling the highest market price for the labor it has need of, and expects to abide by that policy. It preaches the protection of Domestic Industry—the employers and employed alike—and practices what it preaches.

Having been provoked to say so much, we elect to say more. Two or three years ago, the coming May, the Miner's Union of Luzerne county, resolved to strike for higher wages, though competent workmen among them were clearing from eight to ten dollars a day. They did not include the helpers, or common laborers, whom they were paying only two dollars a day. A considerable number of boatmen and railroad hands were enticed into the strike, which lasted full ninety days. Owing to the high wages they had previously received the miners were enabled to hold out, but the helpers and boatmen were soon in more serious trouble than they ever experienced from "the oppression of capitalists." They roamed over the adjoining districts, seeking employment of farmers on almost any condition. By reason of a short supply, coal went in New York and elsewhere, to prices exceedingly hard upon poor people, who did not get the half of ten or eight dollars a day. Not a few were driven to their wit's end to keep from freezing. At last the miners made terms for themselves and resumed work, but they did not raise the wages of their helpers, and the railroad and canal men who followed their instigations they "left out in the cold," most miserably, even if it was midsummer. They had to accept the loss of one-fourth of the year. To the boatmen, who could count only on the season of navigation for considerable gains, the revolt was particularly severe, though it was bad enough for all sorts of work-people not ranked as "skilled." The loss was not inflicted on them by the proprietors, but by the "Union," who sought their own welfare on the principle that "the devil may take the hindmost."

We have witnessed not a few strikes conducted in the same way; without meaning to imply that the one here is of that description. We were trying to mind our own business till the "Union" "pitched into us," and we have not had time since to look after its affairs. We shall try not to have time to devote to that investigation. But we cannot help remarking that the true doctrine is that all Labor is to be Protected—the lower sorts as well as the higher—the workmen and the owners. When the "Union" takes that ground we can be counted in. Till then we shall be counted out.

PAUPERS AND PAUPERAGE.

One of the most difficult of social problems is pauperage. As yet no nation has squarely confronted it with the honest intention of reaching a definite solution. Philanthropists have been deeply affected by its sorrowful aspects, and made bountiful efforts to mitigate its evils, which efforts not striking deep enough, or striking in the wrong direction, have often aggravated, in the long run, the evils they were designed to cure. Advanced thinkers, here and there, have pondered the problem, and made valuable suggestions, which, as yet, lack completeness, but which will ultimately be rounded out, and consolidated into laws. Some small bodies, primarily religious, with an admixture, less or more, of secular elements, have devised schemes that have operated well, and serve as indices to point the road on which larger results of like character are to be obtained.

The Quakers are notable in this respect. Seldom does one of their number become a pauper; never unless by flagrant and persistent vice he has forfeited his standing as a member of the sect. The art of the Quakers does not consist in doling out temporary relief, or in making permanent provision for unfortunates, but in teaching the poor to help themselves, and in furnishing facilities to that end. The strength of a State lies in the strength of its people. Every pauper is so much abstracted from the total productive energy. He is more. He is so much dead weight, clogging the enterprise of the whole.

On an equality, in this particular, with the Quakers are the Jews. Under the ancient Mosaic theocracy, there were several enactments of eminent wisdom touching the treatment of the decayed and destitute. After the Dispersion, the savage and inhuman manner in which they were treated, alike by heathen and christian nations, fostered in the Jews a disposition to be mutually helpful. The precepts of their creed, and the force of their surroundings, conspired for the establishment by them of an excellent policy.

The larger christian denominations take no thorough and systematic oversight of their indigent members. The flippant sneer is not fully warranted that they are so greatly concerned to save souls, they have no interest in saving bodies; but there is enough in their neglect of the temporal well-being of their poor to give that sneer a keen edge. When christianity was young and unpopular; when Jew and Roman both condemned it as a dangerous heresy; when devout High Priests like Caiphas, and mighty Emperors of austere and blameless lives; like Marcus Aurelius and Julian, were eager to crush it out; the christians had "all things in common." Perhaps the delusion that prevailed among them touching the near approach of the end of all sublunary things, increased this tendency. But the wealth of all was the wealth of each. A sense of common peril gave a wonderful exemplification of the spirit of these Divine precepts of the Gospel, inculcating the broadest charity to the destitute and afflicted. But the condition they were in was extraordinary, and the feelings induced by it abnormal; and so not adapted to serve as a model or an inducement.

What is needed is a system by which individuals shall be kept off from the lists of paupers, by stimulous applied to their industry through self-respect. Such rescues are more gains to the individuals themselves, than to the tax payers. How such a system shall be adjusted and operated is the mystery. In the march of an army, the weak will fall out by the way and perish. As the generations flow along the incapables, the ignorant, the vicious, are submerged and overwhelmed, and then float as drift wood.

PRESIDENT JOHNSON, as reported by General HALPINE, holds these opinions:

"No party as yet—and possibly no party for some years—will openly hoist the banner of Repudiation. But a majority of those who shaped the legislation of this last Congress must know—unless they deceive themselves, or are too ignorant to appreciate their own acts—that we are drifting in that direction, and that it is by their votes we have been swung out into the downward stream. Doubtless, some of them would either be, or affect to feel, horrified if to-day branded as Repudiationists—just as, in the infancy of the Freesoil agitation, it was considered a bitter slander if the 'Freesoiler' should be styled an 'Abolitionist.' There are steps in everything, and the term of reproach to-day will be worn as a feather in the cap some years from now, unless the true conservative wisdom of the country can be awakened, &c., &c."

While this representation does great injustice to the last Congress, there is more plausibility in it than in most of the averments which proceed from the President. The last Congress, and particularly the House of Representatives, was reckless in appropriating moneys. Cooler men than the President were alarmed at the want of reflection with which millions upon millions were voted for objects that either could be delayed or ought not to be provided for at all by the government. It is to be hoped that while the present Congress hold the President to accountability for undermining the public credit, they will take heed that by their votes they do not contribute more to that end than any loose or heated talk in which he may indulge.

GENERAL NEWS.

—Very fine leather is now manufactured at San Antonia, Texas.

—Only sixty-seven thousand persons in the whole country returned an income of over five thousand dollars per annum.

—A chambermaid named Mary Dugan, took poison to hide her indiscretion and died in a New York station house, Thursday.

—The Governor of Illinois has signed the bill making eight hours a legal day's work in the State, in the absence of contracts to the contrary. It goes into effect immediately.

—There are, perhaps, more Americans in Europe to-day than there has been at any period since the organization of the Government, and the number now thus absent will without doubt be very largely increased during the year.

—It is announced that a new daily paper is to be started in New Orleans, to be called the Republican. Ex-Governor Michael Hahn is to have charge of it, which is a sufficient pledge that it will be on the right side in politics.

HABITUAL CONSTIPATION.

HOW TO EFFECT A CERTAIN AND PERMANENT CURE.—Some occupations of life predispose to Costiveness, especially those which allow but little exercise. Persons who contract this unfortunate habit of body, under such circumstances, might possibly be relieved by changing their sedentary employments for others of a more active kind; but this is by no means certain. Habitual constipation is a very obstinate disorder. All the ordinary so-called remedies invariably aggravate it. Nothing can be more injurious than the continued use of strong aperients. They at first irritate, and finally almost paralyze the bowels—rendering them so torpid that enormous doses of cathartic medicines have no effect upon them. A mild aperient, combined with a gentle stimulant, is the true remedy; and a combination in the happiest proportion, of these ingredients, is found in HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. This famous stomachic invigorates the whole intestinal canal, while quietly removing from its convolutions all impediments to a free passage through them. No mere purgative has this double operation. No ordinary stimulant effects the desired object. Cases of Constipation abandoned as hopeless by distinguished medical men have been cured in a few weeks by the Bitters. To those who have tried all the medicines of the dispensary in vain, we say, try this irresistible stimulant and aperient. There is no sufficient reason why Constipation should be the consequence of sedentary habits. HOSTETTER'S BITTERS, by supplying the vigor which would otherwise be derived from exercise, will in all cases enable the system to perform its excretory functions regularly and healthfully.

THE INDIANS AND THE WHITE PINE.

Although long known to the aborigines of America, Dr. George W. Swett, of Boston, has brought into shape for convenient use, a most valuable preparation called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which for a number of years has given great satisfaction in the cure of all these ailments dependent on an inflamed or irritated condition of the mucous membranes of the animal organism. For gravel, diabetes, dropsy, chronic bronchitis, nasal catarrh, constipation, when depending on a debilitated state of the intestines, it is one of the most valuable discoveries recently added to pharmaceutical medicine. It is likewise a most valuable compound for diseases of the kidneys and bladder generally, as any one can satisfy himself upon a single trial. Every one knows the healing virtue of the white pine for sores and ulcers, but Dr. Swett has gone to work and prepared from the sweet inside bark of that valuable tree a compound that will meet every indication where the pine would be valuable.

It is confidently recommended for the following ailments:

Diseases in young or middle aged people;
Diabetes in old people;
Stoppage of the Urine;
The same difficulty in children during the night;
Gravel, Kidney Trouble in old people;
Ulcerated Kidneys, Ulcerated Bladder;
Discharge of mucous or pus, or blood from the bladder;
Bright's Disease of the Kidneys;
Pain in the Kidneys or Small of the Back;
Pain in the Bladder, Heat and Scalding;

THE VERY BEST
WATCH
IS MADE BY THE
American Watch Company, OF WALTHAM, MASS.

We claim, and are prepared to prove, that the American Watches, manufactured at Waltham Massachusetts, are not only equal, but far superior, to the watches of England, Switzerland, and France. We also claim that they are CHEAPER, MORE ACCURATE, MORE DURABLE, and more easily kept in order and repaired than any other watches in the market.

Because in each one of the very numerous parts of which a watch is made up, we attain, by mechanical power, nearly absolute mathematical precision and uniformity, making every watch of any one style a true copy of its model.

This similarity in structure reduces the cost of production; it secures uniformity in results; infallibly perpetuates any excellence that may be once achieved, and makes it easy to repair any injury sustained, or replace any part that may be lost or destroyed.

In addition to the mechanical advantages our Watches are simpler in structure, and therefore stronger, and less likely to be injured than foreign watches.

How they run under the hardest trial watches can have, is shown by the following letters:

PENNA. RAILROAD COMPANY.

OFFICE OF THE GENERAL SUPERINTENDENT, ALTOONA, PA., 15th Dec. 1866.

Gentlemen:—The watches manufactured by you have been in use on this railroad for several years by our enginemen to whom we furnish watches as part of our equipment. There are now some three hundred of them carried on our line, and we consider them good and reliable time-keepers. Indeed, I have great satisfaction in saying your watches give us less trouble, and have worn and do wear much longer without repairs than any watches we have ever had in use on this road. As you are aware, we formerly trusted to those of English manufacture, of acknowledged good reputation, but as a class they never kept time as correctly, nor have they done as good service as yours.

In these statements I am sustained by my predecessor, Mr. Lewis, whose experience extended over a series of years. Respectfully,

EDWARD H. WILLIAMS,
General Superintendent.

AMERICAN WATCH CO., WALTHAM.

NEW YORK CENTRAL RAILROAD.

LOCOMOTIVE DEPARTMENT, WEST. DIVISION, ROCHESTER, Dec. 25, 1866.

Gentlemen:—I have no hesitation in saying that I believe the great majority of Locomotive Engineers have found by experience that Waltham watches are the most satisfactory of any for their uses. They run with the greatest accuracy and steadiness, notwithstanding the rough riding of an engine, and as I have never known one to wear out they must be durable. I hope to see the time when Railway Companies will generally adopt your watches, and furnish them to engineers and conductors. In my opinion it would greatly tend to promote regularity and safety. Yours respectfully,

CHAS. WILSON, G. Chief Engineer,
Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

THE BUTLER COUNTY HOMICIDE.

Trial of John B. Adlington for the Murder of Sidney B. Cunningham and James H. Teeples, at Portersville.

TUESDAY'S AFTERNOON SESSION.

John P. Oliver, recalled—From the time we entered the house together—Adlington and myself—I was attending to my own business; I passed him several times in the house; saw him once in the dining room and dancing room; think I did not see him up stairs before the fuss; saw him dancing; don't remember what time it was when I saw him dancing; that was about half an hour before the fuss commenced; I saw him more than once in the different apartments of the house; Teeple and Cunningham were eating oysters at this time; they called me in; they called for the landlord; I went to the door and showed them the dining room, and told them their oysters were ready; they went away and were gone an hour or an hour and a half; afterwards when they came back they said they knew how to act as gentlemen, and they would do so from that on; I told them, as long as they would do so they could take part in the dance; I believe Teeple made first the apology and Cunningham joined in also; this conversation took place in the sitting room; there were other persons present in the room; I don't think either of them at this time were under the influence of liquor. Mr. Cunningham danced with Miss Pile; he did not dance more than once; Teeple did not join in the dance that I saw; Teeple was sitting by the fire in the sitting room while Cunningham was dancing; saw him dance and play the violin; he played after dancing; don't remember that any one danced when he played; the next I saw he hit me above the eye; half-past eleven o'clock when he hit me; it was in the parlor; I was passing through the room when he played the violin; Fred. Bowder was lying in the door of the room; I asked Cunningham what was the matter, when he struck me and knocked me down; he then struck at me with a chair when I was lying on the floor; when I got up and looked for him he was gone; Teeple was standing about three feet from me; he was watching me as though he was prepared to strike, (he showed the pugilistic attitude); I went for him and hit him; he went up in the corner; we took holts and kept fighting on; I repeated the blows; the northwest corner of the sitting room; he did not go down; we fought along past the fire place toward the hall, when he went down and hollowed enough; I let go and some one took me out; he was then in the south part of the room, on the right hand side of the north room; left side going in; did not strike him after he was down; did not get down upon him; I suppose I hit him four or five times on the face and head; his precise words, as he was going down was "enough!" Believe he went down backward on his knees; he did not strike me; he attempted to strike me; I heard him say "if there are any men among you come one at a time!" There were several persons standing around; I could not recognize one person; I had no knowledge of who they were at the time; I saw three or four; when he went down I went immediately into the north room; no one took hold of me till I got to the door; Margaret Newton took hold of me then; I did not see Cunningham after he struck at me with the chair; I could not say what became of Cunningham after that; I was three or four steps into the room when struck; I fell with my head to the door of the north room; he struck me with the chair immediately; I knocked off the blow with my foot; I saw the chair coming and I warded off the blow; I looked for Cunningham, but did not see him; I was about three feet from the door when I got up. I saw no one in the room that I could recognize except Mr. Teeple, and kept my eye on him; he was standing on the north side of the fire and within three feet of me; saw no one strike Teeple or Cunningham; did not see him strike any one else; did not see the defendant in the room; I then went into the kitchen. Mrs. Adlington and Mr. Adlington and Jones were in the kitchen washing the blood off me; think I heard Adlington talk about sending for the doctor for me. I was taken up stairs by Mr. Adlington's wife and several others; I was washed and a dry shirt put on me; it was at the suggestion made in the kitchen by Mr. Adlington, that the doctor was sent for; my wounds were dressed; I was not down stairs till the next Wednesday; I was not at any time engaged with Teeple while he was on the floor; it was after I was knocked down that am told I was hit with a chair.

By the Court.—I think I was struck with the chair just before, or at the time Teeple was on the floor. The back part of my head was cut back of the ear.

Direct.—The other hurt was in my face: that was done by Sydney B. Cunningham. These are the only two hurts I had in the fight; I saw no weapons in the hands of any one during the fight. I had a revolver myself. I struck Teeple with it. There is a hole in the butt of the pistol to fix it in the hand; I had it on when I first struck Teeple; I had it all in my hand but did not strike him. I saw no weapons in either Teeple or Cunningham's hands: nothing but the chair in Cunningham's hand. The defendant said nothing while up stairs about anybody else being hurt; dont know whether the doctor dressed my wound first or not. Mrs. Adlington came about nine or ten o'clock; I don't know who came with her: Don't know of his leaving the house at any time after he entered it with me.

Cross-Examination.—Saw no marks upon the knife; it was an ordinary butcher-knife; don't know that there are others just like it in the stores. He, Adlington, was in the dining room while supper was preparing; I think my wife was there also; I went into the room to quell the disturbance, when Cunningham knocked me down; I put up my hand and asked what the disturbance was about, and was instantly knocked down; I was stunned but conscious; it was an arm chair he struck with; he raised it with both hands above his head; did not hear him say anything; when I got up Teeples had his right hand drawn back in a position to strike; (here witness took position that pugilists do when about to encounter any one) The room was full, but I could not name them; when Teeple said "one come at a time," I was facing him and he was facing me.

Fred Bowder was taken out of the room, about the time I was knocked down. I went out myself; I was bleeding profusely; the doctor put a copper on it to stop the blood, there Adlington washed my face; Adlington assisted me up stairs; I told the doctor to go down stairs, that those men were worse hurt than I was; I referred to Teeple and Cunningham; the doctor went down. I looked at the clock before the fight began, it began at 1¼ o'clock p. m. There were, I suppose, 12 or 14 Ladies there, the family included. There was some noise; there was a great deal of confusion and noise during the fight; I was warned by my brother Sidney, to be on my guard, and heard Cunningham swear "by God that he could lick any man in Portersville or Butler County" I saw him have a pint bottle; did not see how much was in it. Mr. Teeple and Jones drank; He Cunningham drank a toast; I then told him I wanted it stopped; It was a vulgar toast; when I reproved him he took off his coat and said he would not take that affront. Teeple made no attempt to seize him, did not hear Teepel say anything; at the time he took off his coat he and Teeples were standing at the fire; dont know what the oath was when he took his coat off, I backed up to the door and went out; when he came to my house he was slightly intoxicated; he was a large, muscular man, would weigh two hundred pounds; Teeples was also a large man; I had a committee at this ball who issued tickets; the committee was Henry Bowder and George Pringle. On my own responsibility I told them they could take part at the ball; they came from New Castle; they had no invitation that I know of. Mr. and Mrs. Adlington were invited guests to this party.

Direct—All the bad conduct I speak of occurred before they made the apology. I had liquor in the house; know that some one was drunk in the house; don't know who drank; had the liquor in the cellar in a jug; some of the boys went down and had a drink; Henry Bowder, Calvin Weller, Uriah McClarren and John L. Jones drank; I took these men down and treated them; they were not treated more than once; I took a drink in the kitchen; there was no one present when I drank; it was about six o'clock. It was after this that I treated them in the cellar.

Miss Sarah Campbell, sworn—I was at John Oliver's at Portersville, on the night of the 24th of December last. There was a difficulty occurred there that night. In the evening about seven o'clock, Mrs. Oliver came into the kitchen and said there was two gentlemen in the sitting room who wanted oysters. Mrs. Oliver said she would not cook them; he insisted, and I cooked them. Oliver came in about the time they were ready and said the men were making a fuss. They came in, and Cunningham was swearing. I believe he said he could whip that landlord or any other lord, and would do so. Mr. Teeple told him to eat his oysters and not swear so about Oliver. He said, "I can't help it, you know Oliver has insulted me." Mr. Cunningham told Teeple not to talk so much, as there were ladies there. They went out of the dining room about half past nine or between nine and ten o'clock. They came back again. Teeple was sitting by the fire in the parlor. About fifteen minutes before twelve, I heard Mrs. Adlington hallooing, "stop John, for God's sake don't, John; stop John." At this time I saw Adlington going into the sitting room. I don't know why she so addressed herself; she was in the North room. Adlington was running from the North room. Mrs. Adlington was about the middle of the room; defendant had his back to me and his face toward the sitting room. He was running. I did not observe his hands. Mrs. Adlington appeared to be very much excited; I did not see anything going on in the sitting room. Heard a noise; men talking but could not tell what was said; I heard a cry of "oh!" during the fight, and a sound as if some one fell; just after Addlington went into the room; I could not see into the room from where I stood; I was standing in the door between the ball room and the kitchen; I saw Adlington coming toward me. I asked him for God's sake to tell me what was the matter; he said "where are the knives!" I screamed to Mrs. Oliver, who was in the kitchen, to conceal the knives; Adlington pushed me from him and said, "d—n you, where are the knives!" I ran into the dining room; got one of the carving knives and went to the kitchen with it; Mrs. Oliver had concealed the other carving knife; I concealed the knife in my dress; I passed in at the kitchen door; I saw no more of Adlington; this occurred between eleven and twelve o'clock; it was about twenty minutes to twelve when I went to the pantry with the knife; the fight was about over at that time: I think Miss Newton was in the north room; there were others there also; I saw Mrs. Adlington in the kitchen, but don't know where she went; I left the knife behind some jars in the pantry; I then went to the north room; Mr. John Oliver was coming from the sitting room all covered with blood; some one was with him; don't know who it was: I went and looked into the sitting room; did not see any one; the light was not bright; think there was a lantern there; I got a lamp and came back into the parlor; saw Teeple sitting on the oil cloth by the right side of the door as you go into the room; he was leaning against the wall, with his head leaning forward on his breast, his hands hanging down, and his face and breast bloody; there was blood on the wall beside him; I think he called Wm. Kirker; he groaned; he called for Kirker just as I was passing through the room. I saw Cunningham lying in the hall with his head against the wall; I just looked at him as I passed through the hall; he was groaning; he said nothing; I saw Mr. Oliver and some other persons at the head of the stairs; I think I fainted and knew nothing until I found myself sitting in the north room; Miss Newton and Miss Weller were there; I went to the sitting room; Dr. Cowden was then leaning over Cunningham; Jones, Weller and others were present also; he told Weller to examine the pockets of Cunningham and take out the contents; there was a pocket book, small pocket album, and several other small things; I think he was conscious; the doctor asked him if he knew he was going to die; he nodded his head and said "Oh God," or "My God is it so;" he asked for water; he askep me where Teeple was, or the man who had come with him. I told him that he was laying on the other side of the room, hurt as badly as himself. He made a reply; couldn't tell what he said. He rolled over in great agony; he called the name of some young lady; I couldn't understand her name distinctly; I first understood her name to be Serena, or Arena; I asked him if he had any word to send to his mother; he said something but I could not understand it; Kirker told me that he had a mother; I said nothing to him before the doctor came. There were others in the room, but I can't say whether they heard it; Adlington might have been in the room, but I did not see him; I was up stairs in Oliver's room; he was surrounded by his friends; did not see Adlington there; after the fight was over I seen defendant coming up from the cellar; did not see where he went; I did not remain in the kitchen; I went into the setting room; he had nothing in his hand when he came from the cellar; the cellar door usually stands open; I staid in the setting room until Mr. Cunningham died; was only out for water; looked at the time piece about the time Cunningham died; he died a few minutes before one o'clock; I looked at the clock after he died; saw defendant about half an hour after Cunningham died; did not see him again until the next morning; he was up stairs in Oliver'rs room. Shortly afterwards defendant and his wife came down stairs when I was washing Mr. Teeple's face; this was about seven or eight o'clock in the morning. During the fight I saw some one run into the kitchen and pick up the poker; did not see where he went. Saw James Awberson, but was not acquainted with him.

Cross-Examined—I looked at the clock and saw that it was near twelve o'clock when the fight began; did not see Calvin Weller, John Oliver, or any one going into the sitting room. I saw John Oliver brought out of the room; think Maggie Newton was with him. Could not say how long it was after I heard the exclamation "Oh!" that I heard the fall of a body. Did'nt notice any one holding Fred. Bowder, when he came out; I was excited. Could not say how long it was after I heard the fall until Adlington asked for the knives. I heard the cry and think it was after this that Addlington came for the knives. From the sitting room door I saw some one open the street door of the North room and go out shortly after the fight began. It was not Addlington that went out. I cannot be mistaken about Addlington enquiring for the knives; he pushed me aside and said, "d—n you, where are the knives!" He did not get either of the knives. When I went back to the door I met Kirker; he said some one had struck him in the eye, and he wished he had staid at home; I was not in the room when Doctor Cowden made the first examination of Cunningham. He was not in the sitting room the first time I saw him. Dr. Cowden told me he had made an examination. Sidney Oliver passed me in the hall when he went for the doctor. Some time after I saw Adlington coming out of the cellar; I saw John L. Jones coming out; think there were others came out of the cellar; Mr. Jones had a light; Adlington came out first; there was one I did not recognize came out of the cellar after Mr. Jones with a bucket of coal; there was apple jack in the cellar; think they were after that; think there was a lantern sat at the head of the cellar stairs, which reflected light upon the coal in the cellar. I was in the employ of Oliver at the time of this occurrence.

John L. Jones, sworn—I was at the house of Jno. Oliver on the night of the 24th of December; came there about dark; left about half past eight o'clock; came back again at ten o'clock and remained until three o'clock in the morning; when I first went there in the evening Kirker and I were in the room; Mr. Teeple and Cunningham came in about half past seven o'clock; I was well acquainted with them; we shook hands; we talked sociably; Mr. Cunningham was somewhat funny; sported around the room; danced some; and said he was "on it;" said he had went to New Castle a few days before on a little spree. He was going to be married in a few days, going to have a little spree before he would get married, then he would quit off. He said he could whip anything in Portersville or Butler county. He sat down on my knee, and asked me if I knew a young lady named Elizabeth Roberts; wanted to know if she would be there, I told him I didn't know; that I was not one of the party. He said he hadn't a "gal" there. Kirker said in a joke it didn't make any difference if he didn't, a gallon was as good as a quart. He then pulled out a flask; it was empty; Teeples then pulled a flask out of his pocket and passed it around among several. It came to me me, and Cunningham gave me a drink, and then gave it to Teeple. He then asked to play a tune; but said he was to drunk to play. He then asked Kirker to play his favorite tune; he danced around and made some noise. Oliver told him there were ladies in the house, and that he would not allow such language. There was some difficulty, and at the suggestion of Bowder, took a walk. I found them when I came back; they were in the dancing room; Cunningham was calling the figures. We had a talk about the party in the bar-room. We went into the sitting room; I looked in at the dance. After the cotillion was over they danced a polka; they had some talk about the tune; as I turned around Cunningham was striking Fred. Bowder; I saw him knock him down at the second stroke; I said, "hold on boys, this will not do;" this quieted the fuss for the moment; some other persons crowded up and I gave back; Mr. Oliver came in and threw up his hand, and said something, I could not hear what; Sidney Cunningham hit him and knocked him down, as I supposed, on the top of Fred. Bowder; the rush still came in; I saw some one get a chair, and I thought Oliver was knocked down the second time; Wm. Kirker was hit by Bowder; Mr. Adlington said, "yonder, yonder!"—threw out his hand toward Teeple; I supposed Cunningham to be in the crowd fighting; Adlington was crouched in a corner; I asked him if something could not be done to stop this; he then rushed into the crowd where they were fighting; my attention was called to Teeple by the remark; I said, "hold on men, do stop this;" Wm. Kirker came in and told me my little daughter was very much frightened, and likely to faint; went out and quieted her; she was in the north room looking into the door of the sitting room; some one halloed out "oh!" then I saw Teeple go down. At that Adlington came out of the room, rushed past me into the north room, went toward the kitchen, short time, he came out of the setting room again with Oliver. Don't know how he got back into the parlor in so short a time. He says to me as he passed me "help to take care of John, he is very badly hurt." I looked and saw John; his face was all over blood. I thought half of his head was knocked off. I said, "John, John, are you badly hurt." He said he thought he was; went to the kitchen got water and washed him. Adlington kept saying, "send for the doctor." Oliver said, send for the doctor for them other men, we can stop this blood ourselves; Adlington said take him up stairs to bed, he is worse hurt than you think. I picked up the candle and Mrs. Adlington and Adlington and I took him up stairs; while up he kept saying, send for the doctor. In a little while the doctor came up. The doctor asked him if he was bad hurt. He said, "no; look at them other men, they are worse hurt than I am." Adlington also said the same thing. I did not hear any one say to Oliver, or to Adlington, or to any person, that any one was hurt. I saw Teeple by the door. I said, "get up," he said, "let me lie." The doctor called me to Cunningham. He was sitting with his head bent forward. His chin on his chest, his hands by his side; I raised his head, and said, "who, doctor, his head is cold;" the doctor said, we must take him where we can examine him. James Marshall, James Kennedy, and William Kirker, assisted to carry him into the room.

Court adjourned to meet at nine o'clock to-morrow, March 13th, 1867.

COURT REPORTS.

Oyer and Terminer, &c.

Before Hon. James P. Sterrett.

This Court met at nine o'clock, Thursday morning, and proceeded with jury trials.

PLEA OF GUILTY ENTERED.

The case of the Commonwealth vs. Jacob Baltzell, indicted for feloniously shooting his wife and Henry Streng, his father-in-law, being resumed, the defendant withdrew his plea of non cul et de hoc and pleaded guilty, and thereupon the jury was discharged by order of court. The defendant was remanded for sentence.

LARCENY CASES.

Thomas Monroe, indicted for larceny, was found not guilty and discharged from custody by proclamation.

John Campbell alias William Adams pleaded guilty to an indictment for larceny, having robbed the Great Western Gun Works of rifles and revolvers valued at $300, and was sentenced to three years imprisonment in the Penitentiary.

Against John Doran, the boarding house robber, there were three indictments for larceny. On one he was acquitted and to the remainder he pleaded guilty, the court sentencing him to undergo an imprisonment of two years and six months in the Penitentiary.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

Gerhard Schmoil, convicted on an indictment for assault and battery, was sentenced to pay a fine of 6¼ cents and the costs, and to undergo ten days imprisonment in the county jail. His wife was the prosecutor.

STEALING AN UMBRELLA.

Archy Lawson, a well-known police case, was brought from prison for trial on a charge of stealing an umbrella. He plead to the pardonable sin (as some think) and was sentenced to pay a fine of ten dollars and to remain in jail ten days longer.

COLORED AFFILIATION.

Joseph Astors, colored, was called to defend himself on the accusation that he was the father of a child of which Louisa Wesley, also colored, was the mother, and born in the Fourth ward, Allegheny, two months since. Joseph confessed to the "irregularity" and was willing to submit to the penalty prescribed by the act of assembly concerning bastardy. The Court sentenced him to pay a fine of twenty dollars, thirty dollars for "lying in" expenses, a dollar and a quarter per week for five years for the support of the child, for the performance of which he was required to give security in the sum of five hundred dollars.

A LARCENY CASE.

John Schwindle (a suggestive name) was indicted for the larceny of money from Henry Schaffner, a fellow boarder, in Birmingham. The jury convicted, and the prisoner was sentenced to the Penitentiary for one year.

ASSAULT ON A WOMAN.

J. Mulkroon pleaded guilty to having committed an assault and battery on Ann Conley, and was sentenced to pay a fine of fifteen dollars, to remain in jail thirty days, and to give bond in the sum of three hundred dollars to keep the peace.

CONCERNING A DOG.

At the last term Conrad Schaad was tried and acquitted on a charge, preferred by John Oxenhardt, of keeping a ferocious dog, the prosecutor in a combat with the dog being considerably damaged. Out of this case arose a complaint against Oxenhardt by Schaad, for threats to break the peace. This was disposed of by Oxenhardt being required to pay the costs and to give bond in the sum of three hundred dollars to keep the peace for one year toward all good people, and especially towards Mr. Schaad.

ROBBERY OF A STATIONERY STORE.

Ovid Rigby, David Rigby, Henry Murta and Gustave Dott, boys of from sixteen to eighteen years of age, were placed on trial on a charge of robbing the stationery store of James H. Aiken, on the night of the 20th day of January last, of a number of articles valued at over two hundred dollars. The evidence adduced against the prisoners was their own confessions, and the discovery of the goods stolen in concealed places pointed out by them. For the defense it was alleged, not proven, that the confessions were extorted, that the defendants were confined for an undue period in the tombs, scantily fed while there, and that improper means were used by police officers in "pumping" them. Mr. Morrison, in addressing the jury, and referring to these allegations, said there was a grain of doubt to be cast on the testimony, and characterized as "villains" police officers who would so act as appeared in this case. The Court interrupted the counsel, and said it was highly improper to apply such an epithet as "villain" to officers who come on the stand to testify. The District Attorney, as also did the Court, said the law was that if under a confession obtained by inducement stolen articles were discovered in a place designated by the prisoner, this discovery was an independent fact and evidenced that the confession was true. If the jury in this case believed the statement that the goods were found as stated by the officers, their verdict should be guilty. The jury convicted, and the prisoners were remanded, there being other indictments pending against Dott and one of the Rigby's.

AN OLD CASE.

John H. Louderbach, having prosecuted Andrew Leech for assault and battery, testified that on the 7th of July, 1865, he went into a saloon in the Diamond, that while there Leech struck him on the head, knocked him about the bar-room, and that he next found himself in the street severely hurt and bruised. It appears that Louderbach made an information at the time, before the Mayor, against Leech and a man named Burton, but upon the investigation before the Mayor Burton was discharged, and the grand jury ignored the bill against Leech. Recently Louderbach was arrested on a process for costs in the case, whereupon the case against Leech was revived, Louderbach making a new information, and the present grand jury finding a true bill. The case was on trial at adjournment.

Common Pleas Court.

Before Hon. Edwin H. Stowe.

Laughlin & Co. vs. vs. Lewis and George Moul. Action in replevin for a barge load of limestone, which plaintiffs allege belonged to them and had been delivered at their kiln, and for which they paid $140 on account. The barge was brought from Brownsville by the steamboat Traveler, and defendants took it away, claiming it as their property. The action was brought to recover the value of the barge and contents and damages. Verdict for plaintiffs for the sum of $147,70.

Spencer & Garrard and Thomas B. Hamilton, Esq. vs. the Irwin Insurance Company. Plaintiffs had taken a policy of insurance for $5,000 on the Phœnix Steam Brewery, in the Ninth ward, which was destroyed by fire some time since. Spencer owns the property in fee simple, Garrard claims an equitable interest as partner in the brewing business, and Mr. Hamilton claims as mortgagee, holding a mortgage on the premises. For the defense it was alleged that the plaintiffs increased the hazard by introducing in their establishment a still for the manufacture of whiskey, without the knowledge of defendants, and which was not covered by the insurance policy. On trial at adjournment.

District Court.

Before Hon. Moses Hampton.

In the case of Daniel Sweeny vs. N. J. Bigley, the jury on Thursday morning rendered a verdict in favor of defendant. As the case is of much importance to coal diggers, it is designed to take it to the Supreme Court. The question involved has long been the subject of controversy between pit owners and coal diggers, and its settlement by the highest legal tribunal is mutually desired. M. Swartzelder, Esq., is retained in the interest of the coal diggers, the plaintiffs in a number of suits which have been brought, and M. W. Acheson, Esq., was the counsel for Mr. Bigley.

—Every broker is now required to state in his returns to the Government the entire amount of all his sales, including those made through other brokers; from that amount he may deduct the amount of sales made by him through other brokers, and upon which a tax has been paid, and should himself pay a tax upon the remainder. He is required to state in his return when, where, and by whom the sales deducted by him were made; and the assistant assessor is to ascertain, by correspondence or otherwise, whether his representations are correct.

—The United States Marshal for the district of Wisconsin sold at public Auction, on Saturday last, the railroad formerly known as the eastern division of the La Crosse and Milwaukee Railroad for the sum of $100,920. It was bid off by the Milwaukee and St. Paul Railway Company. The sale was made subject to the following liens and incumbrances, amounting to $2,893,105 and interest, to wit: A mortgage to Francis A. Palmer for $9,60,000, with interest thereon at eight per cent per annum since May 1, 1866; two mortgages to the city of Milwaukee for $314,000, with interest thereon from the first day of September, 1866; a mortgage to Greene C. Bronson and James T. Soutter for $1,000,000, with interest thereon at eight per cent per from March 1 1866, and a judgement rendered in favor of Selah Chamberlain in the District Court of the United States for the District of Wisconsin on the second day of October, 1857, for $620,105, and a certain lease given to said Chamberlain as security for the amount of said judgment.

—A communication has been received from the Secretary of the Treasury, at the Custom House, relative to the new Tariff Act, as follows: "The provisions of said act to take effect from and after its passage to wit, the 2d inst., but do not apply to goods imported prior thereto."

—The Supreme Court of Ohio have decided that shares of National Bank stock are considered as property amenable to assessment for taxation under State authority, without abatement for such part of the stock as may be invested in Government bonds.

—The Chicago Tribune, of Wednesday, says: There was very little animation in financial circles to-day, and most of the banks reported business decidedly dull. In some quarters there was a fairly active demand for money, mostly for speculative purposes, but borrowers found the market uncomfortably close. This does not arise from any scarcity of currency, but from the unwillingness of bankers generally to discount speculative paper. The shiftless and ever varying policy, or rather, want of policy on the part of the Secretary of the Treasury, has thrown a cold chill on capitalists, who are unwilling to place their money out of immediate control, so long as their is no confidence in the future. Paper is more rigorously examined; but all first-class commercial signatures pass at 10 per cent. In the open market good names are taken at 1¼ to 1½ per cent. per month.

—Says the New York Shipping List: Trade continues fitful, and, the whole slow. This is the burthen of the reports in nearly all branches of business. High prices, resulting from enormous taxes, National, State, and Municipal, necessarily restrict consumption; and the volume of trade is, for the most part, based upon the necessities of the moment, the dullness being intensified by the uncertainty of Congressional action. Relief must come sooner or later in the shape of reduced taxation, and the adoption of some judicious, but decided, policy touching the National finances.

CENTRAL LIVE-STOCK MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, March 14, 1867.

CATTLE.

The market for cattle continues dull at these yards, the transactions in the aggregate being very light, while so far as prices are concerned, there has been no essential change. The arrivals of cattle have been remarkably light for several weeks, which is owing to the fact that western drovers are having their cattle sent east by other routes, alleging that it is against their interest to ship this way. Whether there is any truth in this or not it is not for us to say, but one thing is certain, the receipts of cattle at these yards have fallen wonderfully during the past month or so, and the transactions in the aggregate do not begin to come up with those at the Allegheny Yards. It is true, there are but comparatively few cattle wanted for Philadelphia, Chester, Lancaster, and adjoining counties, furnishing about all that is necessary for that market, but good to extra cattle would have found buyers for New York at good prices, and possibly a few would have been taken for Philadelphia and Baltimore. As will be seen by reference to report of sales, 7½ to 7¾ are the highest prices reported, but we have no doubt prime to extra grades of cattle would have brought 8 to 8¼. There is an improved demand for stock cattle and we now quote at 6 to 6¼.

HOGS.

The operations in Hogs have been remarkably light during the past week, but as the arrivals were light and the demand kept up with the supply, prices have been pretty well maintained. As will be seen below, Philadelphia Hogs brought from 7¾ to 8¼, gross, as to quality, and New York Hogs sold at from 7 to 7,30. Baltimore buyers are buying a better class of Hogs, at prices ranging from 7,90 to 8,20. Gilchreist & Co. report having bought 5 cars for Philadelphia, at an average price of 7⅞; and 2 cars of extra for Baltimore at 8¼. PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, March 14, 1867.

CRUDE—There was not a single operation in crude to-day that we could hear of, and while the market is apparently a little weaker, prices are nominally unchanged, and we continue to quote at 5¾ to 6, bbls returned and in bulk, and 11 to 11¼, packages included—sale on Wednesday, of 65 barrels amber oil, at 20, packages included. We are cognizant of one of our refiners on Wednesday, having contracted for one thousand barrels, to arrive, at 6, and shortly afterwards sold the contract at 6¼, realizing a very handsome profit. We have no late advices from Oil City—last quotations, $1,75 to $1,85, according to gravity.

REFINED—Was a little more active to-day, but prices are no better. Sale of 2500 bbls, standard white, to be delivered in Philadelphia during the last five months of the year, 500 each month, at 30; 1000 bbls, all the year, standard white, buyers option, at 30; and 2500 to run from April to August, 500 each month, prime light straw to white, at 21, on cars here. There seems to be no demand for spot oil, and telegrams from Philadelphia this afternoon report foreign advices again unfavorable, and all orders withdrawn. The most of the sales above reported, were on Pittsburgh account there being but few eastern buyers at quotations. For free oil the demand continues very light, and prices are entirely nominal.

ARRIVAL—There was but a single arrival reported to-day, 3400 barrels for Fisher & Bro.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
THURSDAY, March 14, 1867.

The general produce markets continue moderately active, though there is still plenty of room for improvement. There is a fair jobbing demand for most, if not all of the leading commodities of trade, and while their is fair volume of business in the aggregate, the transactions are mostly of a jobbing character, round lot operations being the exception, rather than the general rule.

GROCERIES—The grocery market is fairly active, and prices are pretty well sustained. Cuba Sugar is quoted at 12 to 13½; and New Orleans at 13 to 15, as to quality; Hard refined, 16¼ to 16½; Soft do, 15¼ to 15½. Rio Coffee ranges all the way from 23 to 27, for common to choice. HAY—There is rather more inquiry for strictly prime Timothy Hay, and we now quote at $23 to $24 per ton. Sale of 1 car good, to arrive, at $22.

GREEN APPLES—Are selling at all kinds of prices, ranging all the way from $2,50 to $4.50 per bbl, for common to prime.

Importers are disposed to remit liberally again, and bills are scarce. The failure of Taft & Co., Providence, is followed by that of the Waukegan Print Company, with liabilities to the extent of $2,000,000. These failures were caused mainly by the fall in cotton and cotton goods. Consolidated Gregory quiet and steady, ranging from 11.90 to 11.95. Columbia Gold and Silver in demand and sells readily at 2 80@2.85. Corydon less active, but quite firm, selling at 7 @7 75. RIVER NEWS.

The river continues to recede rapidly at this point with sixteen feet in the channel by the Allegheny marks last evening. The weather has become quite cold, though no serious apprehension in regard to a freeze up is entertained.

SPECIAL.—The Great Republic, owing to unforseen circumstances, will not be open for visitors until Saturday afternoon, and will not leave for New Orleans until Monday afternoon.

The little Ingomar, from Matamoras, is the only arrival we have to report, and the Kate Putnam, for Cincinnati and Louisville, is the only departure. The Putnam had a very good trip, and will doubtless fill out at Wheeling and other points.

The Maggie Hays, from Cincinnati, is due here this morning, though it is possible she may be delayed as she has had a very strong current to stem all the way. The Maggie will return to Cincinnati again to-morrow at noon.

The new steamer Elisha Bennett left for Greensboro yesterday morning, and it is stated she had a good trip.

The Western Pennsylvania Railroad Bridge over the Allegheny river at Freeport was damaged yesterday. A steam tow boat, coming down the river, came in contact with one of the arches, shattering it considerably. The boat was very badly aged.

The America, Capt. Golding, will now fill out with Cincinnati and Louisville freight, and leave for Nashville on Saturday, and passengers and shippers should bear this in mind. The Savanna, Capt. McGowan, will probably get off for St. Louis and the Upper Mississippi to-day.

The Sherman, Capt. Baker, is announced to leave for St. Louis on Saturday. The Sherman is a neat and commodious steamer, and is in charge of efficient and experienced officers.

The Great Republic will be open for visitors on Saturday afternoon, and will leave on Monday for New Orleans. We expect to see her leave here full of passengers, and a pretty big trip of freight. That she is considerably ahead of anything in the shape of a steamboat in the western country is now generally conceded.

The Kate Robinson has given up her trip to Pittsburgh, and is now laid up at Cincinnati. Capt. Robinson ere this is probably at home with his family, but as yet, we have not seen him.

The Columbia is due at Cincinnati, from Nashville, and will, we presume, come on through to Pittsburgh. The Ida Stockdale arrived at St. Louis some days since.

The Republic, at Pittsburgh, will have new silverware, spoons, &c., but "how long" she will have 'em we don't know.—Louisville Democrat.

We do. Just until the boat arrives at Louisville and no longer, if a strong police force is not detailed to keep watch over the visiting natives, who will swarm her cabins at that port. Of course, the Democrat man wont be allowed in the pantry.

The same paper also perpetrates the following: "A Pittsburgh chap writes us as follows: "If you don't let the Great Republic alone we will lick you when we come down!" All "we have to say is "you can't do it." Do you think we are Lazarus, to be "licked by dogs?" Can't see it.

We extract the following paragraph from the Cairo correspondence of the Cincinnati Commercial:

The Quickstep moved her buckets out to the ends of the wheel-arms, put on longer "cams," and otherwise prepared herself for a trial of speed with the Mayflower. Capt. Throop, however, declared he would not make any effort at racing, as his boat was new and untried, his machinery being on new timber and not settled permanently into its place, and consequently loose, as all new boats' machinery is until after running some time, and he would not push his boat beyond an easy rate of speed. The two boats left here last night at 7:30 p. m., with the Mayflower about two lengths in advance, which position she maintained until out of sight. The Stonewall met them at a late hour last night, just as they were leaving Paducah, with the Quickstep two lengths ahead, but did not learn which had arrived first at Paducah.

Advices from Memphis say the river is rising, and is one inch higher than highwater mark of 1862. The whole lower country is overflowed. Cattle, hogs and mules are drowning and perishing. Fences have been swept away and plantations destroyed. The inhabitants say the river is higher than was ever known before.

Davis' Cut-off, in the Lower Mississippi, whereby three hundred yards overcome some miles, has lately been attempted frequently, but without success. The water comes down it as if from a house-top. The Kilgour took a sly glance at it. The Kinney went in a hundred yards, and was almost powerless. She came out refreshed. The Virginia went half-way through, and was glad to get out again. We hear that the Arthur rushed frantically into the terrible passage; her bow was swung to the bank and a number of passengers jumped off who couldn't jump back. The boat floated out, satisfied with the experiment.

J. J. Witzig, Supervising Inspector of the St. Louis district, has issued a proclamation in which he says, "all other valves, the plans of which I may have approved, and that are already applied, will also be locked (if found operative after being fully tested) But hereafter no valves will be applied but the 'America,' unless a better or more perfect instrument is produced."

Says the Louisville Courier of Tuesday: The present stage of water is fully 10 inches higher than the late flood-tide of February, and about equal to the flood of 1865. It is below the high water of 1862-3, and is exactly eight feet four inches below the high water mark of the great flood of 1847. Then, the channel debt at the foot of the falls and mouth of the canal was sixty-five feet ten inches. For future reference we subjoin the highest stages of water, at different times, at this port.

Years.		Ft.	In.
1832,	channel depth	66	6
1847,	do do	65	10
1853,	do do	60	4
1862-3	do do	60	—
1865,	do do	58	1
1867,	March, channel depth	58	2
1867,	February do do	57	4

The Louisville Courier goes in for the proposed bridge over the falls of the Ohio. A bridge with two draws, one probably over the Indiana chute and the other over the canal, and that will never knock chimneys and cabins down, and compel boats to leave port scarce half made up, in order to get under it.

The St. Louis Democrat, of Tuesday, says: The Phil. Sheridan didn't trouble herself about the Mayflower on her last trip up the river; passed her in fact so quickly, as hardly to see her. The Sheridan's running time from this port is stated to be four days and sixteen hours. She was the first and yet the only boat that ever effected the passage of Davis' chute. This wonderful cut off is only about 300 yards in length, and shortens the distance, some say eighteen, and others twenty-two miles. This converts a number of fertile farms into an island. The Sheridan ran through in five minutes. No fewer than a dozen boats have attempted the passage and failed. It is fifteen miles below Vicksburg. The current has a velocity, it is said, of thirty miles per hour.

LARGE SALE OF KANSAS LANDS,

ON TUESDAY, THE 2d DAY OF APRIL, 1867, will be offered

AT PUBLIC SALE.

At the Eldridge House,

IN THE CITY OF

Lawrence, Kansas,

ABOUT 155,000 ACRES OF LAND,

Situate in the Counties of LEAVENWORTH, WYANDOTTE, JEFFERSON and DOUGLASS, and known as the

"Delaware Reserve."

These lands are directly on the main line of the UNION PACIFIC RAILWAY, EASTERN DIVISION.

The Branch of the same ROAD FROM LEAVENWORTH TO LAWRENCE PASSES THROUGH THEM, and the railroad from St. Louis to Leavenworth runs along their eastern border.

IN FERTILITY, LOCATION AND ABUNDANCE OF TIMBER AND WATER, these lands are the FINEST IN THE STATE.

By the treaty with the Delawares in 1860 the Indian title to the "Reserve" was extinguished, and since that date many farms have been improved, and churches, school houses, grist and saw mills erected, and many other improvements made therein.

The climate of Kansas is remarkably healthy, and to farmers and settlers these lands offer

Greater Inducements than any Others in the West.

Also, at the same place, immediately after the disposition of the above lands, will be sold about

28,000 ACRES OF LAND,

Situate in the Southeastern part of the "SAC AND FOX RESERVE," in the county of Franklin, Kansas.

Also, a large number of TOWN LOTS AND BLOCKS in the towns of NORTH LAWRENCE, TONGANOXIE and PERRY.

The sale will commence on April 24, 1867, and will continue from day to day until all the lands above named have been disposed of. The lands will be offered in tracts to suit purchasers.

TERMS OF SALE—One-third cash and balance in two equal annual payments, with 6 per cent. interest thereon from date of purchase.

E. M. BARTHOLOW, Agent.

Agricultural Land Serip

FOR SALE.

The Board of Commissioners now offer for sale 120,000 acres of Agricultural College Land Scrip, being the balance of the Scrip granted to the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania for the endowment of Agricultural Colleges in this State.

Proposals for the purchase of this Land Scrip, addressed to "The Board of Commissioners of Agricultural Land Scrip," will be received at the Surveyor General Office, at Harrisburg, until 12 o'clock M.,

On Wednesday, April 10, 1867.

This land may be located in any State or Territory by the holders of the scrip upon any of the unappropriated lands (except mineral lands) of the United States, which may be subject to sale at private entry. Each piece of scrip represents a quarter section of one hundred and sixty acres, is issued in blank, and will be transferable, without endorsement or formal assignment. The blank need not be filled until the scrip is presented for location and entry, when the party holding it can fill the blank and enter the land in his own name. Bids must be made as per acre, and no bids will be received for less than one quarter section.

The Scrip will be issued immediately on the payment of the money to the Surveyor General. On all bids for a less quantity than 10 000 acres, one-third of the purchase money must be paid within ten days, and the remaining two-thirds within thirty days after notification of acceptance of the bid or bids by the Board of Commissioners.
